3 LAYERS OF PROTECTION

The outer layer is made of heavy-duty flocked nylon treated with a water repellent finish, and is available in a variety of camo prints.

The inner layer consists of a 200-gram Thinsulate™ Ultra Insulation which works to decrease the amount of air entering or leaving the garment.

The lining is made of a rip-stop nylon for durability. It is coated with a polyurethane to prevent moisture and dirt from entering in between the layers, and it is treated with an anti-microbial finish to keep odors and human scent "in-the-bag".

ADDITIONAL FEATURES

- A high zip-up collar and a draw string hood for maximum head and face protection.
- Its full camo design and wide variety of camo prints make it an excellent field or ground blind, eliminating the need for other cumbersome and expensive concealment products and tree stands.
- The ultra-quiet flocked nylon outer layer provides sound free movement.
- The backpack and seat portion is constructed of heavy-weight denier nylon for durability with a polyurethane finish to prevent moisture from entering.
- Deep compartments on the sides and front provide plenty of space for your gear.
- Padded shoulder straps add comfort when carrying the EPS.
- Compression Snaps on each corner for compact transporting. When using the inner garment, release the Snaps for generous leg room and a wide stance for shooting.
- The entire blizzard-proof garment weighs less than 7 lbs!
- An optional safety tether port in the back to accommodate most safety harnesses (not shown).

INNOVATION THROUGH NECESSITY

With the big game hunter in mind, the InfernoEPS was designed to allow hours of hunting in extreme conditions, while all the other hunters have made their way out of the woods because they are too cold or wet. The Inferno EPS is great for waterfowl hunters, too, and it doubles as its own ground blind. Even the football enthusiast will enjoy its benefits.

The Inferno EPS has the functionality of a backpack with comfortable padded shoulder straps. Generous outer compartments offer plenty of storage for your gear, lunch, a thermos, or most anything else you might want to take along. Upon getting to your location, the main compartment opens quickly and easily to deploy its warm, protective garment.

Just get inside, and zip it up for hours of hunting comfort with everything you packed within easy access right at your feet. So whether you're in the woods ready to bag a trophy buck, out in the field duck hunting, ice fishing on the lake, or at the stadium watching your favorite team, the InfernoEPS by InfernoTEK has got you covered.
